Return of an Old Status Symbol—The Bicycle

A Chicago Sun-Times survey disclosed in this morning's newspapers that the United States now has 74 million bicycles—a surprising development in this age of automobiles and motor-scooters.

My generation had begun to feel we were indulging in nostalgia when we recalled the days that made ownership of a bicycle a status symbol. Now we stand corrected. The bicycle was a status symbol not only in our youth but remains so today.

The money aspect is trifling compared to the price structure for cars and scooters, but that's the very fact that makes the rebirth of the bicycle significant—it means that millions of Americans have discovered what millions of less-wealthy foreign people have recognized from the beginning: Adventure aboard a bicycle can be more satisfying than battling the constant traffic jam of the main highways for motor vehicles.

The average American is well aware that in Japan, Great Britain, and Europe, bicycles have retained top popularity through the years—featuring such things as excursion trains that carry bicyclists and their machines into mountainous country so people may have a hilarious time coasting homeward.

Which reminds me that most of the cities of my home state of Pennsylvania were hilly, and back in the early 1900s most bicycles were without gear-shifts, making uphill pedaling a rigorous job. We envied the occasional boy who turned up with a two-speed shift. How we would have really envied today's boys with as many as 10 shifts in their gear-box—something not even dreamed of in my boyhood.

And there is a cycle of mechanical changes in bicycles that goes beyond gear-boxes. In my day a bicycle had tubeless tires, while automobiles used tires with tubes. Now the situation is reversed—bicycles have tube-tires, and it is the automobile whose tires are tubeless.

There's a switch to ponder on.

Bumpers Appoints McNulty

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Dale Bumpers announced Wednesday that he had appointed Stanley McNulty Jr. of Pine Bluff to the state Planning Commission, replacing R. A. Ellbott Jr. of Pine Bluff, who resigned.

Bumpers also announced that he had reappointed W. H. "Speedy" Capps of Searcy to the state Board of Public Welfare.

The governor also announced the reappointment of Eugene B. Hale Sr. of Prescott to the state Board of Veterinary Medical Examiners and of Ross M. Glover of Lonoke to the state Board of Barber Examiners.

Named to the state Committee on Stream Preservation were Sam Rogers of Rogers, replacing Alvis Owens of Russellville, whose appointment was rejected by the state Senate, and A. D. Harris of Calico Rock.

Other appointments announced by Bumpers were Doyle Moore of Little Rock to the Health Building Commission, Loral Adock of Dumas and Lamar Miles of Monticello to the Mississippi River Parkway Commission, and Theodore P. Kelm of North Little Rock to the Elevator Safety Board.

The governor also reappointed four members of the Arkansas River Basin Interstate Committee. They are Robert D. Nabbholz of Conway, Charles D. Maynard and John A. Riggs Jr., both of Little Rock, and Emmett Sanders of Pine Bluff.

New Figures Will Show Some Progress in the National Economy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration expects new figures will show the economy grew by $20 billion to $25 billion from April through June, a substantial expansion but slower than had been hoped.

Such figures would indicate the economy still is recovering too slowly to make significant progress against a high rate of unemployment.

The outcome will be officially known later this week when the Commerce Department releases second-quarter figures for Gross National Product, output of the nation's goods and services and the economy's broadest measure.

White House economic advisers had an advance look several weeks ago at the estimated GNP growth for the April-June period. This "flash figure" report showed an estimated growth of $20.4 billion.

"There are some signs it will be a little stronger than that," one administration official said. But no one forecasts it will be strong enough to match the $30-billion GNP growth of the first quarter, January through March.

To keep the economy on the track Nixon's economic advisers laid out in January, the administration was hoping for another $30-billion stepup in GNP from April through June.

Evidence the administration has abandoned this hope came when Dr. Paul McCracken, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, backed away in testimony before Congress, from his 1971 forecast for GNP.

The abandoned figure is $1.065 trillion, a target the administration had said was the key to reducing unemployment and inflation to significantly lower levels by mid-1972.

In view of the slower second-quarter growth, McCracken said, pushing the economy toward $1.065 trillion in the second half of the year could accelerate inflation, since a faster-than-projected economic pace would be required.

For this reason, President Nixon has rejected additional economic stimulants, such as a tax cut, to step up the recovery pace.

But signs the economy is expanding, even though at a slower rate than forecast by the administration, were provided again Wednesday by the Federal Reserve Board.

Temperatures Well Over 100 Degrees

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

When you're hot, you're really hot in Arkansas.

Temperatures soared to well over 100 degrees in the state Wednesday with Texarkana reporting a sweltering 105. Pine Bluff and Fort Smith had readings of 103. Harrison appeared to be the coolest spot with a 96.

However, there may be some relief in sight to the broiling weather. A cool front is expected to push somewhat cooler air into northern sections of the state and then possibly into most other sections of Arkansas by Friday.

Scattered thundershowers activity over Missouri should spread southwest through Friday with the best probability of precipitation in the northeast Arkansas area.

Heavy thundershowers moved southeastward into extreme northeast Arkansas from Missouri for a while Wednesday night. Blytheville reported a rainfall of 1½ inches in six hours and winds up to 70 miles an hour.

Preliminary Winners in Pageant

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Miss Hot Springs and Miss Arkansas Valley were winners Wednesday night in preliminary competition of the Miss Arkansas Pageant.

Lynda St. John, 20, of Batesville, Miss Arkansas Valley, was the winner of the swim suit division and Neena Joyce Troupe, 19, of Hot Springs was the winner in the talent division.

Preliminary competition will continue tonight and Friday and the new Miss Arkansas will be crowned Saturday night.

on Lowering Crop Subsidy

By JOHN CHADWICK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate voted today to continue government price supports and other subsidies for tobacco after a debate over the health hazards of smoking.

An amendment to a $13.1-billion appropriation bill for the Agriculture Department and other agencies to halt the payments was rejected by a vote of 71 to 10.

Sen. Frank Moss, D-Utah, sponsor of the amendment, said it was contradictory for the government to subsidize tobacco growing marketing after finding smoking is injurious to health and banning cigarette advertising on television and radio.

But opponents, mostly from tobacco growing states, said Moss' amendment had nothing to do with health but could open the way for unlimited production of cheap tobacco and an influx of imports.

Earlier a floor fight appeared to be developing over Appropriation Committee rejection of a lowered $20,000 crop subsidy limit narrowly approved by the House last month.

The committee voted 14 to 6 Wednesday to keep the ceiling

Effects of Phone Strike Minimal Now

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Effects on telephone service were minimal today as a strike by some 400,000 members of the AFL-CIO Communications Workers of America against the highly automated Bell System entered its second day.

"If my wife wants me, just tell her to dial 0," one Southern Bell executive told his staff as he and thousands of other management personnel took over the strike's jobs after the 6 a.m. walkout Wednesday.

The result was minor inconvenience—a male Washington information operator did not know the area code for Denver, callers waited up to 50 rings for a long distance operator in Miami.

Direct-dialed calls generally went through normally but both sides agreed that in a matter of time service would begin to deteriorate. Repairs and installations were slowed or halted in the strike-affected area.

The union said its complex strike ending procedures guaranteed that the walkout would last at least two weeks.

CWA President Joseph A. Beirne said late Wednesday that formal and informal talks on a variety of issues had been going on in New York and Washington since the strike began.

A spokesman for the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service said its director, J. Curtis Counts, had been in touch with both sides and that "there have been discussions of matters which are in controversy."

Union demands include wage increases, improved health insurance, an agency shop, better pensions and an end to geographical wage differentials and what the CWA calls an "antifeminist" wage scale.

It put no price tag on the package. Last May 23 the union rejected a wage-benefit package the company said was a 30 per cent increase.

Less than 18 hours before the strike deadline, the company announced a new offer of "more than" 30 per cent, but Beirne said that too was unacceptable to the union's leadership.

Average pay for all Bell workers is $3.43 an hour, ranging from tops of $118 weekly for operators to $193 a week for craftsmen, lower outside the big cities.

Thinks Site System Fairest in Assessing

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Crittenden County Assessor A. E. Miller testified today that the site index system seemed to be the only fair way to assess farm land.

Miller said the system had been used in his county and that he felt it had produced more equitable assessments. Less than 100 of about 4,000 landowners whose farms were assessed by farm index had complained, he said.

Miller was one of several witnesses to testify before a commission appointed by Gov. Dale Bumpers to study the feasibility of using the site index system of assessing farm, pasture and timberland. The commission is to report its findings to the governor and legislature.

The system, already used in many farming areas of East Arkansas, but not to determine the value of timberland, basis the assessment of land value on the productive capability of the soil.

The U.S. Soil Conservation Service is making a survey of soil types in Arkansas and, if the system is used uniformly, rural land would be taxed on its ability to produce certain timber and agriculture crops.

Vernon Catlett, soil survey specialist for the Soil Conservation Service, said the service would not complete its survey of Arkansas for 12 or 13 years. Catlett said in answer to questions by the commission that he thought the service could produce an assessment schedule for tax assessors based on the survey, but that other factors such as location of the land and land use also would have to be considered.

Jones' remark was in testimony at a Federal Power Commission hearing on a natural gas curtailment plan proposed by Arkla. The FPC has ordered all gas distribution companies to file curtailment plans for conserving their gas reserves for the winter months. The FPC is holding a hearing on objections to Arkla's plan.

Jones said that the 42 customers were in a vulnerable category in Arkla's curtailment plan for determining which customers feel the first effects of the firm's dwindling gas reserves.

FBI to Probe Murders of Policemen

WASHINGTON (AP) — FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover disclosed today that FBI agents now will investigate murders of policemen when asked to do so by local law-enforcement agencies.

However, an FBI spokesman reported there have been no such requests since the new policy was adopted last month in the wake of White House meetings on police killings.

"Nobody has asked us," the spokesman said, adding 96.4 per cent of police murders are solved by local authorities within 30 days.

For that reason, and because of Hoover's insistence the FBI not be made a federal police force, the agency has consistently opposed legislation making killing a policeman a federal crime.

In his report for the fiscal year ended June 30, Hoover disclosed the FBI will do by invitation basis what it opposes doing on a mandatory basis.

The switch in policy apparently came after President Nixon called Hoover, Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and a score of state and local police officials to the White House to express concern over a rising number of police deaths.

Last year's toll is expected to be 100, compared with 86 officers killed in the line of duty in 1969. More than 50 policemen were slain in the first six months of this year.

Reviewing the fiscal year, Hoover said investigations into organized crime and extremist violence occupied much of the bureau's time.

More than 700 persons were arrested under provisions of the Organized Crime Control Act of 1970 since it became law last October, Hoover said.

Arrests in securities theft cases totaled more than 60, with the total value of stolen stocks and bonds recovered topping $20 million, he added.

Hoover said membership in the Black Panther party is now estimated at 800, a drop from the 1,000 he said belonged to the organization when he testified before a House appropriations subcommittee last March.

Among factors contributing to the decrease is the intraparty feuding between Black Panther commander Huey Newton and Eldridge Cleaver, the party's minister of information in exile in Algeria, Hoover indicated.

Despite the party's efforts to cultivate a responsible public image, Hoover said, "acts of violence traced to the Panthers resulted in the deaths of three law enforcement officers and the wounding of 21 others."

An FBI spokesman would not identify the three slain officers, but said the deaths occurred in Omaha, Toledo, Ohio and Detroit between August and November of last year.

Water Level Discussed by Farmers

AUGUSTA, Ark. (AP) — Murry L. Lockhart of Augusta, president of Lockhart-Thomas Grain Co. and Augusta Barge Co., says farmers in the White River area will meet Friday with the Arkansas Waterways Commission in an effort to have something done about low water levels on the White River.

Lockhart said that low water is stranding barges and farmers cannot get their grain and other commodities to market at a profit.

"We're going to discuss how we can get ... enough water coming out of Bull Shoals and Norfolk lakes to give us a little consideration in getting this grain out of here," Lockhart said.

Lockhart said there are now give barges stranded on the river because of low water.

He said persons along the White wanted the river dredged or enough water let out of the lakes "to barely slide out of here this time of year."

Mustard Gas Moving From Okinawa

NAHA, Okinawa (AP) — The U.S. Army today began moving about 3,000 tons of mustard gas from Okinawa to Johnston Island in the mid-Pacific.

Officials said five truck convoys took 630 tons of gas in sealed steel canisters to the 15,750-ton transport Sea Lift and that another 600 tons will be moved to the ship each day for the next four days.

About 2,000 residents along the route left their homes and 21 schools were closed for the summer six days early as a precaution, but officials said the operation was completed safely.

The U.S. high commissioner for Okinawa, Lt. Gen. James P. Lampert, said he hoped the future gas removal operations "will go as smoothly as it did today."

Police said a group of 60 radical students tried to block the shipment but were cleared from the road without incident. Although the leftists demonstrated repeatedly demanding that the gas be removed from Okinawa, they now claim its movement endangers the islanders.

The United States has had 13,000 tons of gas stored on Okinawa. Last January, about 150 tons were shipped to Johnston Island, 700 miles southwest of Hawaii, and Washington has promised to remove the rest before the island is returned to Japan next year.

The Army assured Okinawans living along the seven-mile route to the pier that all precautions were taken to assure their safety. Nevertheless, many persons left their homes.

at $55,000 and water down another House provision denying subsidy payments to farmers who permit marijuana to grow on their land.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., said he will propose the Senate accept the $20,000 ceiling passed by the House 214 to 198.

This year, for the first time, farmers are limited to annual $55,000 subsidies for cotton, wheat and feed grains.

But Bayh said that is not low enough to prevent large corporate farms from receiving "their huge annual booty of payments from the government."

Last year the Agriculture Department listed nine farms collecting more than $1 million each, including the giant J. G. Roswell Co. farm in California which received $4.4 million.

Bayh said a $20,000 limit would affect only 2 per cent of the nation's farmers but would save taxpayers $200 million a year.

The committee changes were made in a $13.1-billion appropriation bill for the Agriculture Department and various environmental and consumer-protection agencies.

The total is about $1 billion more than President Nixon recommended and $671 million more than approved by the House.

Veterans in Wheelchairs Drown

ELDORA, Iowa (AP) — Three disabled war veterans in wheelchairs drowned after a boat overturned during a fishing outing from the Soldiers Home in Marshalltown.

Six others in the pontoon boat—four other home residents and two attendants—were rescued after the boat capsized Wednesday about 12 feet from shore in Upper Pine Lake of central Iowa.

Sheriff Lowell McCormick identified the victims as Charles Seaton, 81, of Springfield, Chester Stroud, 40, of Des Moines, and Jergen R. Hoverson, 77, of Jorgensen.

McCormick said the boat overturned when the weight of one of the occupants shifted to one side.

The sheriff said the boat, which was encircled with a railing and equipped with an awning, was anchored in about 12 to 15 feet of water.

Deputy Sheriff Robert D. Callaway said the boat occupants did not have life jackets, but did have life preserver cushions.

Public Works Bill Veto Is Upheld

By JERRY BROWN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democrats have fallen five votes short of overriding President Nixon's veto of a $5.6-billion public works bill, despite support from a handful of Republicans.

The vote was 57 to 36, with a two-thirds majority needed for passage.

Only one vote to sustain the veto came from the Democratic side of the aisle. It was cast by Sen. Harry F. Byrd of Virginia, re-elected last year as an independent.

Wednesday's action apparently was the death knell for a $2-billion building program designed to create 200,000 jobs but rejected by President Nixon on grounds it would do no lasting good and could prove both unnecessary and inflationary.

Nixon signed a bill Monday establishing a $2.25-billion program to create emergency public-service jobs, calling it a temporary step that will offer training designed to lead to permanent employment.

But he said the building proposal would have created only WPA-style dead-end jobs that, for the most part, probably wouldn't have become available for another 18 months.

Nixon has indicated he has no objections to other provisions of the vetoed bill—a $1.5-billion extension of the Appalachian regional development program and a $2-billion renewal of the Public Works and Development Act. The stepped-up building program would have been "an effective mechanism for placing the unemployed back to work on worthwhile projects," said Sen. Jennings Randolph, D-W.Va., chairman of the Public Works Committee.

But Sen. Howard Baker Jr., R-Tenn., said the cost would have been $20,000 for every job created.

Sen. Lowell P. Weicker, R-Conn., said he voted to override the veto, because of increasing unemployment in his home state.

Bruce told newsmen that he had tried to "elicit clarification of their proposals without any response or answers to the series of questions" he put to them.

Bruce, who will soon be leaving his post for health reasons, told the Communist side:

"First, you asked whether we agree to consider your seven points as a basis for negotiation. Our answer is that we are willing ... to consider for negotiation any proposals that have been or may be put forward here by your side, as well as our own."

"Second, you ask which of your seven points we agree with and which we do not, which points we consider positive and which are unacceptable to us. In order to make a full response we will need much more explanation from you as to what your various points actually mean."

He said the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese deal with the complex issue of troop withdrawal, and prisoner release "in a highly superficial and misleading manner. You gloss over the fact that you still seem to be asking acceptance by us of the same fundamental objectives you have always sought here—the total, unconditional withdrawal of U.S. forces without any previous negotiation on the subject, and our acquiescence in your demand that we impose a government on the South Vietnamese people."

29 Killed in War During Past Week

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — The allied commands today reported 29 American troops, 238 South Vietnamese soldiers and 1,103 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong were killed in action last week.

The American toll was the highest in six weeks, but a spokesman, Maj. Charles Johnson, said seven of the men died of wounds received in earlier weeks and six had been previously listed as missing.

The enemy toll was almost 50 per cent less than the total claimed the week before. Johnson attributed the drop to a reduction in allied ground and air operations due to a typhoon and heavy rains.

The South Vietnamese total was nearly 25 per cent less than the previous week's.

The U.S. Command also reported nine American deaths from nonhostile causes last week and 179 Americans wounded in action. The South Vietnamese said 514 of their men were wounded.

Total casualties reported in the war now include 45,373 Americans killed in action, 9,653 dead of nonhostile causes, 300,692 wounded and 1,485 missing or captured; 130,164 South Vietnamese troops killed and 282,615 wounded, and 758,499 enemy killed.

In the only significant ground fighting reported today, South Vietnamese troops clashed with enemy forces in the U Minh forest in the Mekong Delta. Saigon Headquarters said 19 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops were killed, with no South Vietnamese casualties reported.

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A spokesman for Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. here said today that the company had made a new contract offer to the Communications Workers of America in St. Louis. A Bell spokesman said the contract was the largest wage and benefit package ever offered to Bell to its employees.

The CWA's contract with Bell expires at 12:01 a.m. Saturday, but already about 3,000 employees of Southwestern Bell in Arkansas are off their jobs as a result of the CWA strike against Western Electric Co.

The three-year contract offer calls for immediate wage increases of up to $23.05 a week for top-rated craft employees in larger cities, including Little Rock, and up to $21.50 in other locations. Additional wage increases along with cost-of-living adjustments are provided in the last years of the contract.

The company estimates that wage improvements and other benefits amount to about a 30 per cent boost.

A Bell spokesman said the union indicated it would study the proposal.

29 Killed in War During Past Week

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — The allied commands today reported 29 American troops, 238 South Vietnamese soldiers and 1,103 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong were killed in action last week.

The American toll was the highest in six weeks, but a spokesman, Maj. Charles Johnson, said seven of the men died of wounds received in earlier weeks and six had been previously listed as missing.

The enemy toll was almost 50 per cent less than the total claimed the week before. Johnson attributed the drop to a reduction in allied ground and air operations due to a typhoon and heavy rains.

The South Vietnamese total was nearly 25 per cent less than the previous week's.

The U.S. Command also reported nine American deaths from nonhostile causes last week and 179 Americans wounded in action. The South Vietnamese said 514 of their men were wounded.

Total casualties reported in the war now include 45,373 Americans killed in action, 9,653 dead of nonhostile causes, 300,692 wounded and 1,485 missing or captured; 130,164 South Vietnamese troops killed and 282,615 wounded, and 758,499 enemy killed.

In the only significant ground fighting reported today, South Vietnamese troops clashed with enemy forces in the U Minh forest in the Mekong Delta. Saigon Headquarters said 19 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops were killed, with no South Vietnamese casualties reported.

Military sources in Vientiane, the capital of Laos, said the Laotian government is planning a major shakeup in the command structure of its armed forces. The net effect will be to shift power from the Vientiane rightists led by the Sananikone family to Prince Boun Oum's rightists in the southern panhandle.

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A spokesman for Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. here said today that the company had made a new contract offer to the Communications Workers of America in St. Louis. A Bell spokesman said the contract was the largest wage and benefit package ever offered to Bell to its employees.

The CWA's contract with Bell expires at 12:01 a.m. Saturday, but already about 3,000 employees of Southwestern Bell in Arkansas are off their jobs as a result of the CWA strike against Western Electric Co.

The three-year contract offer calls for immediate wage increases of up to $23.05 a week for top-rated craft employees in larger cities, including Little Rock, and up to $21.50 in other locations. Additional wage increases along with cost-of-living adjustments are provided in the last years of the contract.

The company estimates that wage improvements and other benefits amount to about a 30 per cent boost.

A Bell spokesman said the union indicated it would study the proposal.

B&PW Patio Party Is Held

Fun, food and frolic was the order of the day at the B & PW Patio Party Thursday, July 8 at the home of President Dee McMurrough on the Rosston Road. Quartet tables were set up in a wooded area near the home, and there 32 enjoyed a delicious supper. Kenneth McMurrough was the chef for the charcoal-broiled hamburgers served with all the trimmings, and ice cream and cake concluded the fare.

As the sun went down, candles were lighted and a short business meeting was held. Then, games were played by the members and several guests, Mrs. John Mills of Memphis, Mrs. Leonard England of Stockton, N.J., Mrs. Verna Ayers and Mrs. Phyllis Dillard.

A number of prizes were won during the evening, but the two mystery gifts, a musical jewelry case and a box of home-canned preserved sweets, went to Nina Anthony and Ann Fick, respectively. The finance committee, Margie Vickers, Opal Herve, LaVeta Mouser, Mable Ward, Charlene Wiggins, Lena Maryman and Georgia Bledsoe, produce a fine party with the able assistance of several additional volunteers.

Marlene Sanders Reports

By JOYCE GABRIEL

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Redheads have an advantage over the rest of us. When they wear kelly green, they have a neon-light effect. You can't miss them, and you don't want to.

Marlene Sanders is a redhead. And her kelly green pantsuit lit up the conference room at ABC-TV. She had just returned from one of her numerous speaking engagements, this one in Alabama.

Miss Sanders, who has been with ABC News for seven years, is the first female newscaster to anchor a network news show. She's replacing the regular anchorman on the Weekend News for three months.

In all the documentaries done on injustice and discrimination by network news, there is never any mention of one downtrodden minority group: Women TV journalists. There are few of them in the business and those that are have had to work a little harder (sometimes a lot harder) to get ahead.

Marlene Sanders has been lucky.

She started in TV in 1955 when she worked for Ted Yates, who produced the old Mike Wallace Show for a New York station. She was his production assistant and it was Yates who taught her how to put a news show together.

Eventually, she became associate producer for the show and wrote for Wallace's "Nightbeat" program. When Wallace left the station, Marlene stayed on to become a coproducer. She also produced local documentaries.

As happens to most career girls who look like Marlene (pretty), she got married. She had been working for the station for five years.

"The jobs ran out at the same time I became pregnant," she said, "so I decided to quit for the summer. I never doubted I would go back to work. As it turned out, after six weeks at home, I was ready."

Her son born, the following January Marlene went to work for the Westinghouse Broadcasting System, doing PM East, with Mike Wallace again as anchorman.

After a year and a half, she made another switch, this time to WNEW radio (a New York station), where she was assistant news director and did radio documentaries—writing, producing and doing air work.

Seven years ago, she came to ABC-TV.

Her career there has gone well, except for a few snags. "I've been by-passed for projects at different times," she said, "but a number of men in positions of authority have trusted me. They even sent me to report on Vietnam."

"But, let's face it, the networks have moved slowly in employing women for top jobs. There are only a few of us—Aline Saarinen, Liz Trotter, Barbara Walters, Maria McLaughlin and Virginia Sherwood."

"There are two ways to look at how I got the anchorman job," she continued. "One is that they needed someone to substitute and looked around for the most qualified person to handle the job. But I doubt it was that simple. I think it's more a case of the time being right for a woman in this slot and the network being ready to move more courageously."

Marlene applauds the courageous moves, and does some prodding to get more of them. She's a member of the local board of AFTRA (American Federation of Television and Radio Artists) and she wants the "newsmen" category changed to "news broadcaster."

"After all," she explained, "we have other categories that say 'singer,' 'announcer,' etc., so why should 'newsmen' be allowed? It's discriminatory. It's like putting up a sign: 'For Men Only.'"

Miss Sanders is very much in favor of some of the Women's Liberation ideas, especially in their job opportunity philosophy.

"It bothers me that more successful women don't want to be bothered with Women's Lib," she said. "A lot of them feel they made it on their own, that discrimination didn't keep them out. But there are still things that need to be changed and I'd like to seem them changed."

In her speaking engagements, mostly on college campuses, Marlene encourages women to develop their potential. And she offers her own career, marriage and motherhood as evidence that a woman can have a career and "be a woman," too.

Marlene's husband is a TV producer working for National Educational Television in New York—he is a producer for "The Great American Dream Machine."

"My husband has been terrifically cooperative with my career," she says.

What about her son, Jeff? Marlene explains that he sometimes travels with her on location or speaking engagements, that she has a full-time housekeeper and that she has a college student living with them each year who spends a lot of time with Jeff.

"A woman once asked him, 'Wouldn't you like to have your mommy at home?'"

"Jeff gave her a funny look and then he said, 'What and have her sitting around in curlers watching TV?'"

Television and Radio

By JERRY BUCK

AP Television-Radio Writer HOLLYWOOD (AP) — After nine years in "The Beverly Hillbillies," Buddy Ebsen is returning to television in the fall in roles totally alien to that of the good-natured multimillionaire.

On an episode of "Hawaii Five-O" he plays a crafty mathematics professor who devises a scheme to sell stolen travelers' checks.

On "Gunsmoke" he tracks down wanted men with a dog, then dispenses his own justice with a bullet.

For the TV movie "The President's Plane Is Missing," he is cast as a vice president awakened with the awesome news that he may become the chief executive.

Ebsen, his hair almost white and his beard like steel wool, is not too unhappy over the cancellation of "The Beverly Hillbillies" by CBS. The show made him a millionaire and provided him with a ranch in Malibu Canyon and an ocean-front home in Newport Beach where he moors his 35-foot catamaran Polynesian Concept.

During his years in the series he accepted few outside guest roles. "All people are lazy," he said. "As long as you have a comfortable job and you can play with boats and things, why change? Then your series is canceled and you have to get out and find out how good you are."

Ebsen said, "You look for parts. You get ahead by what you can afford to turn down. I've turned down big money for bad parts and taken small money for good parts."

Ebsen's career goes back to 1928, when he danced in "Whoopee" with Eddie Cantor. After years as a dancer he turned to dramatic acting, but few people remember him as a villain. "There was a time when I played nothing else," he said.

"Even after I was in 'Davy Crockett' I played some. Not dirty dog villains, but gray villains. I can lead people to believe there are lots of evil thoughts going on in my head."

Ebsen, wearing a string tie with a clasp of his "Te" brand for the seven Ebsens in his family, said "It's fun to play the bad guy. People are more interested in evil than good. You have the undivided attention of the audience."

In the meantime, Ebsen is playing in the comedy "Take Her, She's Mine" with his wife Nancy and his 21-year-old daughter Bonnie at the Sherry County Playhouse at Traverse City, Mich.

HELEN HELP US!

by Helen Bottel

QUESTION AND ANSWER IN SAME MAIL

Dear Helen:
I still love him though I deny it, even to myself.

How can you forget someone you planned your future with? We went steady for a year and were always true to each other, and then foolish pride ruined things. You see, I waited for him to call me when I was supposed to call him, except I wouldn't call because I thought he owed me an apology. So there we both sat, waiting, and getting madder all the time.

It's too late to do anything about it now because we don't even speak. But Helen, he doesn't date anyone else and he even tells his family we're still going together. Why doesn't he just call up and say he's sorry? HATES STUBBORNNESS

Dear H.S.:
Because boys (and men) usually aren't made that way. Here are two letters that (1) answer your question and (2) tell you how to solve your problem. Dear Helen:

What is an Ex-Boy friend? He's the one who always asks your best friend "Where's what's-her-name?"

"The one who calls and says he has the wrong number (rather than says the words that would get her back)."

"The kid who 'just happens' to ride past your bus stop when he knows you're there. But would he stop or even wave? Heck no!"

"The one who has your phone number scribbled all over his wall, just in case, you know, not for any special reason.

The one who sends you a birthday card with no name signed, but addressed in his very distinctive handwriting with the green pen he stole from you.

He's the kid you really hate to run into on the street, but most of all, face, and he gets that same sinking feeling when he sees you, because you both know that you love each other, but you're both too PROUD to admit it.

(But I did.)
Just sign me-LEARNED, AND NOW HE'S NO LONGER MY EX

Dear Helen:
He's back. He's back! That wonderful guy was only six words away all those many months.

"Honey, I'm sorry. Please forgive me." Those were the six magic words I said to him. Thirty minutes later he burst through my door and hugged me so hard I couldn't breathe. He even accepted part of the blame—then.

One word to your girl readers: By HIS code, he never would have called. He expected me to apologize. So I bit my lip, buried my pride, and did. —JEN

Dear Helen:

I totally disagree with the mother who signed herself "Down With Mother's Day!" I think our Mother's Day is the best of the year, and I know MY mother wouldn't mind at all if all eight of us gathered at our house for dinner, even if she had to cook part of it.

After all, a family is the most important thing to a mother—isn't

Dear Theresa:
"Not entirely." Liberationists will say, but thanks for your good letter anyway. —H.

Fans Bored With Football Legalities

By PAT THOMPSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (AP) — With National Football League contract disputes heating up, Jim Finks says he's doing his part to relieve what he feels is the sports public's boredom with front office skirmishes.

"I think the people are more interested in reading how Carl Eller is going to knock Joe Kapp's head off," declared Finks, general manager of the Minnesota Vikings.

Eller, Viking defensive giant, and Kapp, a former Viking, will confront each other Aug. 8 when the Vikings open their 1971 preseason against the New England Patriots.

But Finks was making a point about clamping the lid on any Minnesota contract troubles in 1971.

"It's getting where the fans have to be just bored to death with retirements, pensions, grievances and complications over money all the time—in all sports. In basketball there are guys talking of moving from one team to another, basketball players retiring and football players playing out their options."

"I'd rather just concentrate our efforts on playing football and playing winning football with the players we have. If I can't sign them, then I can't sign them. If they leave after they're through with the contract, that's their prerogative."

Kapp led the Vikings into the Super Bowl in the 1969 season, then exercised his prerogative. The gummy quarterback played out his option and later signed with Boston, now the New England Patriots who gave up a regular and a No. 1 draft choice in the 1972 draft for Kapp.

Finks said the Vikings will not have a similar dispute this year with any of their players.

Vida Blue Tries for 30-Game Win

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer
Vida Blue's drive to become a 30-game winner and the first southpaw pitcher to do it in 40 years will command attention in the second half of the major league baseball season which resumes today after the All-Star break.

The 21-year-old star for the Oakland Athletics, the winning pitcher for Tuesday's All-Star game, is scheduled to go after his 18th victory Friday night against the Detroit Tigers. Blue compiled a 17-3 record before the All-Star break. In his last start July 9, he pitched 11 scoreless innings against California and struck out 17. The A's went 20 innings before beating the Angels 1-0, but Blue was not involved in the decision.

Not since Robert Moses "Lefty" Grove compiled a 31-4 record for the old Philadelphia Athletics in 1931 has a southpaw been a 30-game winner. Sandy Koufax came closest in 1966 when he won 27 for the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Denny McLain, a right-hander, was the last 30-game winner in the majors. He accomplished the feat in 1968 when he had a 31-6 record for Detroit.

Is Blue ahead or behind the McLain 1968 pace? If Blue beats the Tigers Friday he will be exactly even with McLain who won his 18th on July 16, 1968 with a 4-0 shut out over Oakland.

Even if Blue fails to become a 30-game winner the A's seemed headed for the AL West title. They hold a commanding 11½-game lead over Kansas City. In the AL East, the Baltimore Orioles, offending world champions, lead runnerup Boston by 5½ games.

In the National League East, the Pittsburgh Pirates are 10 games in front of the New York and Chicago Cubs with the St. Louis Cardinals 11 back. San Francisco six games ahead of the runnerup Dodgers in the NL West.

The San Diego Padres play tonight at Pittsburgh and will try to snap the Pirates' six-game winning streak. The slumping Mets, beaten in six straight and in all of their last 12 games, are at Houston.

Elsewhere in the NL Philadelphia is at Chicago, Los Angeles at Atlanta, San Francisco at Cincinnati and Montreal at St. Louis for a two-night doubleheader. There's also a full slate in the AL. Detroit is at Oakland, Baltimore at California, Cleveland at Kansas City, Chicago at Washington, Milwaukee at New York and Minnesota at Boston.

Jackson Ties Babe Ruth Record

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — That mammoth home run Reggie Jackson socked in the All-Star game at Detroit Tuesday night tied the Oakland A's slugger with the legendary Babe Ruth for the longest homer on record.

Jackson's herculean clout in the third inning off Pittsburgh's Dock Ellis on a 1-2 pitch went high over the second deck in right-center. The ball would have gone out of the park but it hit the bottom of a light stand and bounced back.

It left the field at the 415-foot mark and at a point 132 feet high. It was estimated to have traveled 600 feet.

"A 600-foot job, that's what I'm going to print on the ball," said Jackson who was given the ball as a souvenir. "This has to be the longest homer I've ever hit."

Ruth also is credited with a 600-foot homer in 1926 at the Detroit park, then known as Navin Field. The park was remodeled in 1938.

Oddly, Jackson's homer came on the anniversary of Ruth's 700th career homer. The Babe hit that milestone July 13, 1934 off Tommy Bridges in the third inning in a game at Detroit.

Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees, Norm Cash of Detroit, Harmon Killebrew of Minnesota and Frank Howard are among the few other players who have clouted 500-ft or more home runs. Mantle's longest blast, ex-

Trevino's Talent Wasted For Years

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer
DALLAS (AP) — The waste of it all galls Arnold Salinas.

"It's a shame when you consider the money in this town and the best golfer in the world couldn't get on the professional tour," said Salinas, the best friend of golf's clown prince, Lee Trevino, current U.S. and British Open King.

Salinas, who arrived back in Dallas this week after gallerying and partying with Trevino in England, said "I guarantee you he has been the best player around since 1962. But none of the country clubbers in this town ever heard of him. He would shoot 81 at Glen Lakes and 64 at Diamond Oaks in Pro-Ams and nobody would acknowledge it."

"Who is to say he couldn't have accomplished what Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus have. There's money around here and a lot of folks are swallowing their tongues now because they could have backed him on the tour."

Salinas said a lot of folks overlooked Trevino because "He likes to drink, and party, and he's a Mexican. I tried for several years without Lee knowing in an attempt to get a sponsor. No luck. I never told him what I was doing because I didn't want him to get his hopes up. If Claudia hadn't put up that $20, Lee would probably still be in El Paso at the age of 31 waiting for his chance."

Trevino's wife somehow saved $20 out of his $35 weekly pay check to give Trevino a chance to qualify for the U.S. Open in 1968. Trevino eventually finished fifth, won $6,000 and was on his way. The next year he won the open.

Even at Tension East, a municipal course and hustler's paradise where everyone was painfully aware of Trevino's talents, Trevino wasn't considered good enough by most to make it on the tour.

Dutch Boyd, a long time employee at the course, said "It's one of those you can't see the forest for the trees cases. He was so good nobody ever saw the color of his money around here. But nobody dreamed he could make it on the tour. He hooked the ball and wasn't really a good putter. But he changed all of that with hard work."

Salinas, who joined Trevino in matches against the best Tension had to offer, said it amazes him how Trevino never holds a grudge.

"Lee was snubbed a lot of times and I'll never forget some of the things they (the country club establishment) did to him," Salinas said. "I remember all the wrongs but Lee is the kind of guy who forgets them."

CHATTHAM, Mass. (AP) — About 60 women golfers will get a chance to play under a new format today as the 54-hole LPGA Cape Cod Hospital Tournament gets underway at the Eastward Ho course.

The ladies will be paired in two-member teams in the $20,000 best ball event, a first on the LPGA tour.

"They love the format," said Joe Paterno, general chairman of the tournament.

"They haven't had one of these before and they are all enthused about playing in it." Pairings include Jane Blalock, who won the George Washington Classic last Sunday, and Jan Ferraris; JoAnne Guderson Carner, winner of the USGA Women's Open a few weeks ago, and Pam Higgins.

Also Kathy Whitworth and Judy Kimball; Betsy Rawls and Betsy Cullen; Sandra Palmer and Sandra Haynie; Marlene Hagge and Judy Rankin; Mickey Wright and Carol Mann; Beth Stone and JoAnne Prectice; Marilyn Smith and Dede Owens.

The final two rounds of the tournament will be played Friday and Saturday at New Seabury-County Club.

Casper Now Playing in Western Open

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — Billy Casper, one of the favorites in the Western Open Golf Tournament, is playing in the event only because of the bloody, abortive palace coup in Morocco.

"I'd planned on spending two weeks there," Casper said today, before his first round in the $150,000 Western.

"I didn't hear about the trouble until we were having dinner Saturday night after the last round of the British Open. Then we heard the news on the radio."

"At that time the reports were that His Majesty (King Hassan II, Casper's frequent golfing companion and his host for the projected trip) had been killed."

"I called my manager in London and he called the White House. The White House said His Majesty was safe on a ship off the coast, but advised that the country was closed."

"I just couldn't believe it all, when I first heard about it. Just amazing. The general who led the revolt was a friend of mine—I've played golf with him. And now he's dead."

Casper, one of pro golf's three $1 million winners and the 1970 player of the year, had been scheduled to fly into Morocco only about 12 hours after automatic weapons fire swept through the king's palace.

"We were told the country was closed," Casper said, "so I decided to come to Chicago and play instead. I should be playing more anyhow."

"I'm playing much, much better now," said Casper, second four times but a non-winner so far this season. "I'm hitting the ball very well and my putting suddenly fell into place during the last round of the British Open."

Casper, winner of $71,000 this season despite a relatively restricted schedule, was given the best chance of turning back Lee Trevino's bid for still another crown.

The streaking Mexican-American, unprecedented winner of the U.S., Canadian and British Open crowns in a four-week string and by far the No. 1 money winner this season, was a top-heavy favorite for the $30,000 first prize here.

Some other leading contenders include defending titleholder Hugh Royer, national seniors champ Julius Boros, Frank Beard, George Archer, veterans Gene Littler and Miller Barber, and Dave Eichelberger, winner of last week's Milwaukee Open.

Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer, South African Gary Player, England's Tony Jacklin and Masters champion Charles Coody are among the missing. Coody had to withdraw Wednesday because of a knee ailment.

Petty Wins NASCAR Auto Race

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (AP) — Stock car fans have followed Richard Petty for several years. So have hundreds of drivers.

Once again, the Randleman, N.C. speedster left the competition behind in his Plymouth's exhaust as he won the 250-lap Grand National NASCAR stock car race at Albany-Saratoga Speedway Wednesday.

The victory brought his Grand National point total to 2,150 increasing his lead in this year's competition. He is a three-time Grand National champion.

Petty overcame a one-lap deficit midway in the race and never looked back. He headed into the pit for a tire change early in the race but came back out on the track under a yellow caution flag. From there he quickly made up the one-lap difference.

Petty was two full laps ahead of second place finisher Dave Marcis, of Sanford, N.C. J.D. McDuffie, also of Sanford, was third.

Richey Has Tantrum on Court

By TOM SEPPY
Associated Press Sports Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Two years ago, shortly after he was married, Cliff Richey said he was turning over a new leaf and would hold his temper on the tennis court. For the most part, he has kept his word.
But during Wednesday's second round of the $50,000 Washington Star International Tennis Tournament, the nation's top-ranked player threw a tantrum when he tripped over a loose service line tape in his match with Spain's Andres Gimeno.
The 24-year-old Richey, who now makes his home in Sarasota, Fla., raced back to the tape, pulled it loose, threw his racket to the ground and went to the sidelines to sit down.
"I was at fault," said Richey, defending champion and No. 5 seed after he lost to unranked Gimeno 6-3, 7-6. "I told Andres that if he wanted a default, I would have given it to him.

"Maybe I should have walked off the court, but I've seen referees call it both ways. I want to make it emphatically clear, I was wrong for what I did."
In other upsets, unseeded Pierre Barthes, France's No. 2 player, ousted third-seeded Arthur Ashe of Richmond, Va., 7-6, 1-6, 6-1, and unranked Roger Taylor of Great Britain knocked off 15th-seeded Clark Graebner of New York City, 6-2, 3-6, 7-5.
Top-seeded John Newcombe of Australia, second-seeded Stan Smith of Sea Pine, S.C., and Rod Laver of Australia, No. 4 seed, advanced to today's third round in their quest for the $10,000 first prize.

Frazier Exhibition Proves Point

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
Associated Press Sports Writer
HOUSTON (AP) — Heavyweight champion Joe Frazier, enjoying every minute of it, showed he can take a punch Wednesday night, going two rounds each with veteran Cleveland (Big Cat) Williams and young James Helwig in an exhibition match.
Frazier went the first two rounds with Williams and came out of his corner with the same relentless attack used when he battered Muhammad Ali March 8 in his last fight.
Rumors had it that Frazier would never fight again because of the beating he took in winning the fight.
But Frazier and his manager Yancey Durham said after the exhibition they believed their point had been proven.
"I hope some of the people will be convinced now," Durham said. "He (Frazier) told me that Cleve still had that power."
Frazier said he thoroughly enjoyed the exhibition and was feeling fine.
"I was just playing around out there," Frazier said. "Of course, I need to pick up a little steam now and then."
Williams stood around in the first round against Frazier, sizing up the champ.
But in the second round Williams connected on several shots to Frazier and on one occasion backed the champ into the ropes.
The younger Helwig, who has only one pro fight under his belt, mixed it up impressively with the champ. He even bloodied Frazier's nose in the second round.
"He was pretty impressive," Frazier said of Helwig. "He got me once right here on the tucker," Frazier added, pointing to his nose.

Owens Leads in Public Links Meet

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — It's no wonder Peter Owens leads the field after the first round in the U.S. Public Links Golf Tournament here.
For one thing as a physical education teacher he has plenty of muscle power; for another he is probably the only player in the 149-man field who really enjoys the blistering heat.
Owens came on strong on the back nine Wednesday to post a 39-33—72 to lead the Public Links by one stroke. He was the only player to beat par on the 6,596-yard Papago Course, when everyone was faced with a steady breeze and the hot, hot weather.
Owens wasn't bothered by the 100-degree temperature. "I love it," he said.
Alvin Adams, New Orleans, and Archie Badian, Milwaukee, didn't agree. Adams was taken to a hospital after collapsing from heat exhaustion on the 14th hole.
Badian was walking down one of the fairways when two match books ignited in his pants pockets, burning both leg and pants.
The field in this 46th annual tournament includes battle-scarred veterans like Badian, a former tour pro, and first-time out teen-agers, like 16-year-old Bruce Cochran, Jacksonville, Fla.
Eight players were tied at one stroke back at 73. They were Kent Brown, Ventura, Calif.; Mike Sheely, Sacramento, Calif.; Robert Terra, Los Angeles; Bob Allard, Portland, Ore.; Tom Olson, Phoenix; Lee Parker, Dallas, Tex.; Gary Balliet, Rochester, Minn.; and Rod Velasquez, Hayward, Calif.

Boswell Won't Seek Office Again

RUSSELLVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Little Rock attorney Ted Boswell, an unsuccessful candidate for governor in 1968, said Wednesday he had no intention of seeking the office again in 1972.
Boswell made the remark at the annual Mt. Nebo Chicken Fry near here.
Boswell, who is considering a race against Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., in 1972, said that he had been urged to run for governor.
McClellan was to have been the main speaker at the event, but was detained in Washington. Paul Berry, an aide to McClellan, accepted a plaque given the senator by the Dardanelle Chamber of Commerce, the sponsor of the chicken fry.
The plaque was given to McClellan for "his dedication that brought about the completion of the McClellan-Kerr Arkansas River Navigation System."
Boswell was not on the program, but milled among the crowd and was asked how his race was going.
Boswell said that many people had expressed interest as to whether he would be a candidate for governor in 1972.
"I think it important, therefore, to make it clear as possible that I have no intention of running for governor in 1972," he said. "My only interest is in the office of United States senator and I have not as yet made a decision in that regard."
Lt. Gov. Bob Riley spoke in place of McClellan. He praised the development of the Pope County area. The only other state official attending was Atty. Gen. Ray Thornton.
About 2,000 persons attended the chicken fry, despite the heat and the fact that this is not an election year. During an election year, the event usually attracts most of the politicians running for office.

Nixon to Continue Conference

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — President Nixon will continue foreign policy conferences at the Western White House and then fly back to Washington on Sunday.
Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Wednesday that Nixon will continue his talks with Secretary of State William P. Rogers and adviser Henry A. Kissinger before winding up a 12-day stay here.
Ziegler said the President had considered a stop at Yosemite National Park en route to Washington, but decided against it, at least for the moment. He said Nixon might visit the park next month if he returns to San Clemente, as expected.

France to Have Nuclear Missiles

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. military sources expect France soon will become the fourth nation to place strategic land-based or submarine-launched nuclear missiles in combat readiness.
The French already have 45 Mirage nuclear bombers, and the missiles represent a second generation of France's independent strategic strike force.
U.S. authorities have predicted Communist China will deploy its first medium-range missiles this year, joining the United States, Russia, Britain and France in that nuclear class.
Reports in the Pentagon say France's intermediate-range ballistic missiles IRBM is a two-stage, solid-fuel weapon with a maximum reach of more than 1,500 miles, far enough to hit Moscow.
The first group of nine IRBMs is about ready, U.S. sources said, and a second group should be operational by the end of this year.
A third group has been postponed indefinitely, it was said, perhaps to await perfection of an improved missile.
Meanwhile, U.S. military sources said the first of five missile-firing submarines planned by the French is expected to become combat-ready within the next few months.
The submarine, much like the

IMPROVING THE ENVIRONMENT via television is something new in research techniques at the University of California at Berkeley. Hunter Woodward, a student in architecture, steers a TV simulator, developed at Berkeley, over a model of an urban area. The resulting picture on the screen gives the effect of low-flying helicopter over an actual built-up area, permitting planners to study many kinds of environments more realistically.

Unidentified Body Is Investigated

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—An investigation was continuing today into the identification and cause of death of a body found late Wednesday in a bauxite pit south of Little Rock near Dixon Road.
Officers said the decomposed body was found in a pickup truck submerged in about 22 feet of water. The truck had been in the pit for quite some time, officers said, possibly several years. A reporter at the scene said the truck bore a 1968 Arkansas license plate.
State Police Capt. Jim Ross said a Little Rock attorney tipped officers that the body might be in the pit and divers from the Little Rock Air Force Base were sent to the scene.
The body was taken to the University of Arkansas Medical Center, where authorities were trying to determine the cause of death. There was a report that

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB Rapid Heart Rate Can Be Puzzling

Dr. Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—Could you help my husband? He has had a complete checkup even at the Mayo Clinic and so far there isn't a doctor who can help him. He gets this fast pulse, so fast you can't count it. He gets pale and has to lie down. It lasts a short time then sometimes it lasts up to two hours. For a while he has it every day then there will be weeks before he has it again. Doctors told him, he is as healthy as a horse, and many wish they had his health. Then why this pulse? He is 62 years old, five feet 11 and weighs 205 pounds. He is a bricklayer but has trouble putting in a full week because of his fast pulse. If he didn't have a good boss he would have lost his job long ago.

Dear Reader—One of the difficulties doctors have in dealing with this type of problem is that the patient always has the problem when he is not in the doctor's office. Any medical examination, even at the Mayo Clinic, is just a brief glimpse of what occurs 24 hours a day, 365 days a year.

The best approach is to try to document the nature of the rapid heart rate. There are little tape recorders that people can wear and record the heart beat for 10 hours at a time and by changing the tape, records for days can be obtained. Unfortunately, these are not available in all doctor's offices and the procedure is expensive.

There are several irregularities of the heart that could cause the difficulties you describe in your husband. Many of these examples of "rapid heart action" occur in people who are "healthy as a horse." In others, an overactive thyroid can cause the heart to be more irritable than normal and cause such episodes. If there is no apparent cause for them that is fine, but

Z studied the dummy before calling for the ace of trumps. East showed out and Z remarked, "It is just as good that we are playing the Jacoby transfer. Something tells me that everything is going to be wrong with this hand. Nevertheless, I would have made game in Wilbur Whitehead's column back in the '20s and things are no worse today."

Z led a diamond to his queen at trick two. West produced the ace and continued with the 10 of trumps. Z won this in dummy and led a spade. Once more a queen fell to West's ace. Back came the nine of trumps.

Z won this with the queen and was ready to operate. He cashed the king of spades, ruffed a spade in dummy, led a diamond to his king, ruffed a diamond in dummy, cashed dummy's king of clubs, led a club to his ace and played his last spade.

West held the eight of trumps and the queen of clubs. Both were good, but there was no way for him to make more than one trick. If he ruffed the spade, Z would discard the club from dummy. If he discarded his queen of clubs, Z would win a trick with dummy's seven of trumps.

Leftists in Iceland Want U.S. to Leave

By CARL HARTMAN
Associated Press Writer
BRUSSELS (AP) — The decision by Iceland's new left-wing government to close the U.S. naval and air base at Keflavik is the second blow within a month to forces of the North Atlantic alliance keeping track of the Soviet navy.

Last month in Malta, 2,500 miles away in the central Mediterranean, another new left-of-center government, headed by Prime Minister Dom Mintoff, expelled the Italian admiral in charge of NATO forces and said it wanted to make the island neutral.

Malta was Britain's "unsinkable aircraft carrier" in World War II and is still useful but not essential to allied defense. Much the same surveillance of the Soviet naval buildup in the Mediterranean could be based on nearby Sicily. The essential for NATO is to keep the island from turning into a base for the Soviets, which does not seem likely.

Iceland could be a more serious problem, and officials of the alliance are worried. No easy substitute exists for Iceland's surveillance facilities, and recent Soviet fleet operations in the North Atlantic have caused even more concern among allied naval officers than those in the Mediterranean.

Early this month an American plane based in Iceland spotted a Soviet task force on maneuvers north of the Arctic Circle, "attacking" a NATO naval force and running a "landing operation" against the allies in Norway.

The Keflavik base is an important communications center for merchant shipping as well as naval vessels. Iceland also is a member of NATO—Malta is not—and it always looks like weakness in the alliance when a member falters.

In hostile hands Iceland could become a formidable threat to the lifeline between the United States and Europe. But like Malta it seems unlikely to become a Soviet base. The Communists have two posts in the new cabinet but Premier Olafur Johannesson is far from being a Communist. And there appears to be little readiness among its 200,000 people to welcome the Soviets.

In a statement of policy Wednesday, the new government said it intends to remain a member of NATO even though it wants to get rid of the 3,700 U.S. servicemen and their base.

Old People Bused to Market

DETROIT (AP) — Senior citizens living in Detroit's dilapidated Cass Corridor are being bused to a suburban supermarket where they can buy groceries at savings of up to 20 per cent from what they pay at small neighborhood markets.

Using a bus provided by an innercity church and funded by the supermarket, dozens of men and women are taking advantage of the weekly trips.

The Rev. Lewis L. Redmon, minister of Cass Methodist Church, said he conceived the idea three years ago after evaluating a study which showed innercity residents pay more for food than their suburban counterparts.

Four weeks ago, Nathan Fink, president of Great Scott Supermarket Inc., agreed to fund the program for 12 weeks experimentally and longer if it is successful.

The $100 donated by Fink provides for a bus driver and a helper who carries the groceries.

Each Monday evening people line up along the Cass Corridor with its seedy hotels and abandoned buildings, waiting for the bus and the two-hour shopping trip.

"We expect more people to use the bus in the winter," says Juanita Ferguson, assistant minister.

Annie Barlow, one of this Monday's shoppers, gleefully snatched up a five-pound bag of flour that had been damaged in handling and was priced at only 40 cents.

"See, I'm always looking for something like this," she said.

Old Age Creeps Up on Everyone, Especially If You Remember This

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Are you an old-timer? You are if it makes you sigh to look back and remember when—

A street had more tied up horses and buggies on it than parked cars.

Few girls expected to work outside the home after marriage. It was expected that the husband could bring home by himself all the bacon the family needed.

A man could live a long life without paying more than $100 to either a dentist or a doctor.

More floors were swept with brooms than vacuum cleaners.

A woman always tied her hair up in a white rag before starting a real housecleaning.

Newspapers rarely printed the word cancer except in medical articles. In obituaries, victims of it were said to have expired of carcinoma or—more often—"after a lingering illness."

Only a playboy on a spree tipped a hatcheck girl a quarter. Most patrons grumbled over having to leave a dime.

You could take a quarter, go see a movie and enjoy a sack of popcorn, and come home with change in your pocket.

When you wanted to get warm in winter, you didn't turn up the thermostat. You stood over the hot-air radiator on the floor. If that didn't do it, you trudged down to the basement and threw a few shovelfuls of coal into the furnace.

Mah-Jongg, an old Chinese game, became such a fad it kept millions of American women from their household chores.

You could safely predict that any diner that charged more than a nickel for a cup of coffee would soon go out of business.

Relatively few people were robbed on the streets after midnight, because in most towns there wasn't any real reason to stay up that late most night.

When a son reached an age where he started criticizing his father aloud at the dinner table, it was tacitly accepted that he would probably be leaving home soon.

A telephone was thought of as something of an emergency instrument, and sometimes you'd

Minh Lashes U.S. Support of Thieu

By J.T. WOLKERSTORFER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — Gen. Duong Van Minh charged today that American support of President Nguyen Van Thieu and repression by Thieu's government could prevent a fair and honest presidential election Oct. 3. He called for the replacement of Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker.

The blast from the 56-year-old retired general was the second attack in as many days on Thieu from one of his prospective opponents in the election. Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky accused the president Wednesday of dictatorial practices and maneuvering to rig the election.

"My American friends," Minh said, "have told me that the United States wants me to run. Then if Thieu is elected by only a small margin, it will look like he won in a fair election."

Minh charged that Thieu is certain to be re-elected if Bunker remains in Saigon.

"Bunker is a great specialist in elections of this type," he said. "He succeeded in the Dominican Republic, he succeeded in Vietnam in 1967 and he will succeed again in October."

"All my American friends have told me that he strongly supports Thieu and that a free and honest election will be very difficult with the presence of Ambassador Bunker."

Minh said Thieu is already campaigning with the help of a machine "made in the U.S.A."—printing presses, radio and television stations, planes and helicopters, all supplied by the United States to the South Vietnamese government and used by Thieu for his personal political gain.

Minh charged that Thieu is also using revolutionary development cadres and other government workers to campaign for him in the provinces, all subsidized by U.S. funds.

Minh was deposed in 1964 after overthrowing President Ngo Dinh Diem in 1963. He remains one of the most popular figures in Vietnamese politics, and many observers consider him the leading challenger to Thieu.

Minh said an honest election would be possible only if the Thieu regime allows a free press and "ceases its systematic repression" of the workers for other candidates.

Libya Break Irks Many Moroccans

By MICHAEL GOLDSMITH
Associated Press Writer
RABAT, Morocco (AP) — Supporters of King Hassan II reacted with derision to Libya's severance of diplomatic relations with Morocco.

One Moroccan cited a comment the king made in an interview published a few hours before Egypt's Middle East News Agency reported the Wednesday night break.

Hassan said diplomatic relations between the two countries had no real meaning because "between us there is not only a desert of sand but a desert of the intellect." Geographically Libya and Morocco are separated by nearly 1,000 miles of Algeria and Tunisia.

Libya's leftist military government openly supported the attempt by Moroccan army officers last Saturday to overthrow Hassan, and the Libyan strongman, Col. Muammar Kadhafi, threatened to send paratroopers and other forces to support the rebels if foreign governments intervened. The king in retaliation surrounded the Libyan Embassy in Rabat with troops and kept the ambassador and his staff inside.

The Moroccan Embassy in Tripoli and its staff were similarly restricted.

Tripoli Radio has continued to broadcast attacks on King Hassan's "feudal regime" and reported demonstrations against the king in Libyan cities. One broadcast acknowledged the coup attempt had failed, but claimed others would soon follow.

The Egyptian news agency said its Tripoli correspondent learned Libya has asked Egypt to take care of its interests in Rabat, a logical step since Egypt, Libya and Syria have announced they are in the process of forming a federation.

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat sent to Hassan a personal message Tuesday which reportedly urged the king to delay breaking relations with Libya while the Egyptian leader tried to mediate between the two governments.

The government-owned newspaper Depeche of Casablanca said the Libyan attitude "risks compromising the federation as well as Arab unity everywhere."

The Middle East News Agency said Sadat conferred Wednesday night with Kadhafi at Mersa Matruh, near the Libyan-Egyptian border.

Sadat said Monday the quarrel between Morocco and Libya could harm the Arab nations' joint struggle against Israel, but this appears doubtful. Kadhafi is seen by some as a fanatic on the subject of Israel, but Morocco-like Algeria and Tunisia—has given only moral support to the cause.

Safety of Bus Wagons Is Disputed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A report describing bus wagons as marginally safe at best and inadequate at worst has pointed up loopholes permitting such vehicles to escape federal auto safety laws.

The report came Wednesday from Consumers Union, a non-profit, independent product-testing organization in Mount Vernon, N.Y., which rated crash protection in the Volkswagon bus wagon and the Ford Chateau Club Wagon as grossly inadequate. Chevrolet and Dodge models were rated marginal.

Volkswagon challenged Consumers Union to provide any information from crash tests and said its bus—which it calls a station wagon—meets existing federal front-end crash standards for automobiles. Ford had no immediate comment.

The report also disclosed the government has exempted bus wagons from many federal safety regulations by labeling them "multipurpose vehicles" or "forward-control vehicles."

Thus, the bus wagons are not required to have head restraints. They need not have anti-theft locking steering columns, or collapsible steering columns designed to prevent drivers from being gored in a front-end collision. The seat belts required on automobiles since 1967 were required on bus wagons only since the first of

Broadcasting Bill Is Introduced

By CARL C. CRAFT
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Question before the House: How does a radio or television newscaster say "..." when he doesn't say something someone said?

The answer may be as complicated as the question. But sponsors of so-called "truth in news broadcasting" legislation claim they have a way to provide an electronic ellipsis for indicating when words are missing from quotes in condensed interviews.

The case of what Rep. William E. Minshall, R-Ohio, calls Columbia Broadcasting System President Frank Stanton's "elusive ellipses" is sure to spark fresh debate over delicate 1st Amendment press-freedom matters as Congress considers how to deal with alleged media distortion.

During the hearing that prompted the House Commerce Committee's ill-fated demand that Stanton and CBS be held in congressional contempt for refusing to surrender subpoenaed leftovers from "The Selling of the Pentagon" documentary, the network chief testified: "We have been searching for a long time in broadcast news, both for radio and for television, to find the equivalent, for example, of the three dots that the printer has. We have not found that particular device."

But, Minshall contends, "Either they are not looking very hard, or there is a lack of sincerity in their search." Disputes such as the one over the CBS program, he said, could be prevented in the future if his legislation is passed.

"Certainly had CBS clearly identified the portions of its documentary that were edited out of context at the time of broadcast, there could have been few recriminations afterward," Minshall said, referring to charges that questions and answers were electronically rearranged.

Minshall said his proposed news- and public-affairs program amendment to the 1934 Communications Act "would supply Dr. Stanton's 'three dots' by requiring the clear and explicit labeling of broadcast news and news documentaries that have been staged, edited or altered out of context."

For radio, the bill would require an announcer's disclaimer before and after such sequences—indicating that what listeners were about to hear, or had heard, was staged or edited. For television, a similar disclaimer would be needed during transmission—the way a viewer is told moon-shot coverage is being illustrated by simulated scenes.

this month. And shoulder harnesses are optional.

The vehicles also are exempt from the Department of Transportation proposed standards on occupant protection in crashes and rollovers.

The bus wagons were granted exemptions though advertised as family vehicles and promoted as alternatives to station wagons.

Ford listed its sales of the bus wagons this year at 11,494. It has been making the wagons for five years. Volkswagon sales hit a record 65,069 last year and have been over 50,000 a year since 1968.
